

JM PLANTS AND PRODUCE CSA

THIS WEEKS HARVEST

Goat Cheese, Tomatoes, Lettuce, Rainbow Chard, Turnips

VERMONT

SHELBURNE

24 SEPTEMBER 2010
WEEK SIXTEEN

What's New

Goat Milking

Milking the goats has been quite an adventure but the cheese that comes from all that hard work is delicious! The picture at the left is an up close look at the milking process, enjoy!

This week on the blog...

Fall seed planting and season extension methods

Pictures of milking the goats!

Next year's perennials

www.jmplantsandproduce.wordpress.com

WINDING DOWN THE YEAR

It is fall! The first frost is almost here and we are officially a few days into fall. This is the last week of the CSA and we appreciate the support of all our members and volunteers for making this season such a great one! We are going to try and continue the season through early winter using various season extension methods. If you are interested in what produce we have throughout the winter check out the Charlotte Farm Stand Co-op website at: farmstandcoop.com. You can support other local farms there as well!

We would like to invite any of our CSA members, volunteers, and other supporters to take our survey. Let us know what you think of the farm and your experience working with us. We greatly appreciate your feedback and support in the 2010 season of JM Plants and Produce CSA!

The survey can be found here: <http://www.surveymonkey.com/s/5Y5HRQC> or through a link on the blog!

